survival of indigenous people in a harsh, yet so beautiful landscape!
Memories of these peoples are collected for the memories of Namibians.

Many thanks for coming up with such an amazing exhibition about the past and future memory of the landscape!!! All the displays are well organised and self-explanatory! We hope more of this exhibition will happen in future. Best wishes Titus Shungu (Gobabeb)

What a historical and amazing exhibition in our entire lifetime!! Thanks for coming up with such an idea. This is what needed in every Namibian citizen's history. We appreciate this idea and experience by superb knowledge.

Hoping for more to come, and wishing you all the best and best of luck.

Wilbard Mutewe Indongo (Gobabeb)

This is an interesting exhibition in our lifetime. I learn ~~valuable~~ invaluable knowledge from the past & future. It is real an indication that we are living in a dynamic world! Additionally, it makes an evidence that climate change is happening!

Thanks for both tacit & explicit knowledge you have shared with us.

Glad!

Halle Shaanika

Super interesting exhibition -> it's great to see the changes that have taken place across these different themes. The success of change from various sources is really awesome to see!

Many thanks for the inspiring time we had when having the opportunity to see the memories you collected from all over this fascinating and contrasting country.

We really enjoyed the star and personal anecdotes we got to know. Wishing you all the best!

I or rather we are so grateful that Sian and partners has over the years continued with the FUTURE PASTS project. The project brings to life and revive the culture, traditions and memories of our people's untold land. It is a documentation of our people's rich history. The residents of the north west Namibia through this project have the opportunity to tell their stories/history and how they were affected by changes and how they face the future.

Jansen Taurab (Purros-damab) Namibia.

"Few weeks ago you took my aunt Julia Taurab on a trip to Purros the place of her birth and burial site of her grandmother. She told me how she felt by saying "I am so happy to have gone back and seen our former dwelling place and burial site of my ancestors now I am happy even if I die I will die a happy person"

Born in Africa (RDC) 67 years ago, this is really my first extended stay on the continent again. Not sure I had vivid memories of African people as I left when I was 7 years old, but I easily recognised the hospitality, joy of life of African people. Beautiful country, incredible experience, and this exhibition brings a broader perspective to what we have seen so far. Glimpses of a disappearing world, where everything was at the same time much harder and much simpler. It is even more important now to record what was and is not there anymore, especially for the people of this country as they still care about it... Thanks for that work and let's hope it will be the right finish for them.
(Claude & Annie)

I feel very happy to come and see the grandmother Hairo and the beautiful mountains. I'm very proud of u for what u have do for us Its very fantastic. Thank a lot from Emmie Caruses.
